

Eric Algoe was appointed Vice President for Finance and Support Services at Texas State University in September 2015 where he oversees all of the financial, physical, and human resources of the one of the largest and most vibrant universities in the nation.

Mr. Algoe formerly served as Associate Vice President for Finance and Administration at Florida State University and as Vice President for Finance and Administration at Ohio Wesleyan University where he left a positive mark during his term in leadership at one of the nation's premier private universities and one of the top public research universities in the world.

His career has focused on public service and mission-driven non-profits, including past experience as the first-ever chief operating officer and chief fiscal officer at the Ohio School for the Deaf and the Ohio State School for the Blind, the inaugural chief fiscal officer for the Ohio Office of Technology Governance, and 14 years of service as a military intelligence and civil affairs officer in the United States Army and Army Reserve.

Mr. Algoe holds a master's degree in business administration, and a bachelor's degree from The Ohio State University, where he later earned the Certified Public Manager designation at The John Glenn School of Public Affairs.

Mr. Algoe lives in Austin, Texas with his wife of 20 years and three daughters, and is a Plain City, Ohio native. An engaged citizen in the community, Mr. Algoe serves or has served on numerous community boards, committees and task forces with organizations such as the Austin Chamber of Commerce and the United Way in addition to serving as Chair of a High School Foundation, Trustee Chairman of his church, and as a member of a city school's Financial Planning Committee.
