

Andy Bennett – Deputy CISO

Office of the Chief Information Security Officer

Texas Department of Information Resources

Andy Bennett is a boot wearin' native Texan who serves the State of Texas as the Deputy Chief Information Security Officer. He has a diverse IT background with experience in roles across the enterprise and in a variety of sectors including government, banking, higher education, applied research, oil and gas, law enforcement, Fortune 500 consulting services, and more. Andy specializes in incident response, investigations, strategic planning, and change efforts and has a passion for security. He is the primary author of the State of Texas' Incident Response Redbook Template and is involved in strategic planning and rulemaking at the statewide level.